Our NPofC summer potluck hosted by Hans and Willy Kremer and held Saturday August 20, 2016 was a grand success.....The pot-luck menu supplied by everyone was varied and delicious and the sunny California weather co-operated by not being unpleasant. We are always pleased to welcome our spouses to this gathering.

Since no stamp business was conducted .....this Newsletter will be a short one.

Dutch Letter-Box Stickers -- NEE/JA or NEE/NEE

By Franklin Ennik

The Netherlands postal authority and private delivery firms deliver every year, newspapers, advertising flyers, junk mail, presorted business mail, leaflets and unaddressed (occupant) solicitations, into Dutch mail slots and road side mail boxes. Estimates of 34 Kg (approximately 75 lbs.) or more of junk mail, etc., is received by Dutch households every year.

In an effort to reduce the amount of unwanted advertisements and local newspapers, and therefore the gross consumption of paper, a solution was needed. A solution was invented and introduced in 1992 by members of the Dutch Dialogue Marketing Association (previously known as the Nederlandse Direct Marketing Instituut). One of these marketing companies was Stichting Loesje with this slogan: GEEN RECLAME S.V.P. / WIJ HEBBEN ALLES AL which was taped onto mail slots and mail boxes.

This notice, meaning, NO ADVERTISING PLEASE, WE HAVE EVERYTHING ALREADY, quickly caught on and morphed into the NEE/JA sticker system that is now in place over the Netherlands and Dutch speaking areas of Belgium. In 2010 it was estimated that 18 per cent of Dutch households were using the Nee/Nee sticker on their mail slots and road side mail boxes, and it is likely higher now.

Many kinds of newspapers are published in the Netherlands every week: some local district newspapers are provided free, weekly to every household in the country but others must be subscribed to, for example the large national or city newspapers.

The official, orange and green stickers shown here are now supplied free just by asking (usually) at the city hall, Gemeente, offices of the Stadsdeel kantoor (district council office) or wijkzaken (district business office). The stickers are available in two variations:

NEE/NEE means NO junk mail (including advertisements and flyers) and NO free, weekly newspapers;

NEE/JA means NO junk mail or advertisements but Yes with the delivery of the local, free newspapers.

The mail customer will receive addressed, first class mail and subscribed newspapers anyway, no matter the presence of a sticker. Does anyone have a JA/JA sticker on their mail box?? It's not very common but having no sticker at all is equivalent to having a JA/JA sticker. A JA/NEE sticker is not available (at least officially): no company makes them. Addressed advertising is not banned by the stickers. Complaints about receiving unwanted mail can be referred to the government Stichting Reclame Code office.

Mail boxes with no stickers could conceivably receive a half dozen or more such deliveries per day of different kinds of mail, such as, first class, advertisements, packages, newspapers, business mail, etc.. Many private firms make and sell unofficial, custom-made stickers that accommodate public whims or silliness, or special needs situations and applications, for example such that might apply to large apartment blocks or business parks.

Also available are no colportage (no canvassing) stickers to stop solicitation by charities or religious vendors knocking at your doorstep. The small stickers shown here would be placed near the doorbell. For those interested in the variety and lengths to which these private firms will go to provide notices to ward off unwanted paper ..... check out the Loesje stickers link given in the References.

Wachteven! Wait, Hold On ... Maybe this system could work in the US and Canada!!!

The mail box illustrations, with thanks, courtesy of my nephew, Jan E. Ennik, who lives in Appelscha (Fr.).

Dutch Naval Heroes 1943.

By Hans Kremer

Most of us have seen the set of stamps issued in 1943 to honor Dutch Naval heroes. One would think that honoring these typical Dutch heroes would not sit well with the occupying German authorities. But that was not the case. One only has to read what is said in this Arnhemse Courant newspaper clipping of July 25, 1944. Translated, it reads:

History repeats itself: 1st English War 1652-1654, 2nd English War 1665-1667, 3rd English War 1672-1674, 4th English War 1780-1784,.... and now again, the same enemy, the Netherlands' arch enemy at sea. Evertsen, Tromp, De Ruyter.... they all went before us. They died as heroes....we fight on.

This was followed by an appeal encouraging Dutchmen to sign up for the Kriegsmarine, the Navy of Nazi Germany from 1935 to 1945.

On board a Mine Sweeper...A "sweeper" apparatus is being made ready.

Registration as a volunteer in the German Navy is open to every Dutchman of 17-45 years and can be done at the Netherlands Kriegsmarine recruiting branch in Utrecht. Information can also be obtained from the District Commander of Harbor and Marine Service facilities and the Waffen SS.

"Your Enemy is My Enemy" doesn't always work!!
